Euclid, Ohio
ALMA MATER

Hail to thee, O Euclid High School,
To thy name all praise we sing.
Happy days of youthful pleasure,
Learning, living, life so dear.
Our hearts fill with gratitude
For all that is to be . . .
Alma Mater, Euclid High School,
All our praise we bring to thee.

Where the blue of Erie’s waters
Casts the sun’s bright golden rays,
There all Euclid’s sons and daughters
Sing the joys of student days.
If after days be dark and drear
And storms of life draw nigh,
The memories of our friendships here
Will lift our hearts to Euclid High.

Window glass reflects
Light
That streaks
Across the morning sky
Onto
The faces of bleary-eyed
Waking students.
Beneath the outer shell
Of unshaken sleep,
An anticipation
Of the day's happenings
Begins to grow;
New experiences,
Set in established patterns,
Wait to occur.
Hanging
From a locker door,
Waiting—
Dreaming—
Time slows
Until hours
Seem to separate minutes.
People collect in pairs,
Pairs join—
A group grows.
Murmuring sounds
Build as people
Talk.
Conversation
Reveals their Feelings.
The crowd dissipates
And all is calm.
Throughout the six hour world,
Couples roam, oblivious to all but one another.
They're alone, in a room or a crowd,
Sensing the one's distress,
The other's troubles.
In eternal silent communication,
Transmitted through the eyes,
A smile,
A sigh.
Individuals are lost
As each joins
The stream of people
That flows
Through the halls.
Time drags,
Periods
Melt into each other
Creating a block mass
Of constant concentration
Broken only by study hall—
Lunch—
And day's end.
Relaxation
Of mind—
Of body—
Ease the weight of the day
From the student's conscious.
He looks for Companionship.

Periods
Each other
Lock mass
Attention
Hall—
Lunch—
Day's end.
Individual classes unite
And become Euclid.
Spirit posters
Serve as roadsigns
Directing masses
To the place of contest.
Pressure,
Frustration,
Build
With each play's execution.
All is quiet,
Distant sounds echo
Through empty halls.
Everything is gone
But the atmosphere of
The day's events.
A kaleidoscope of feelings
That converged and each,
For a moment,
Dominated,
Was recognized,
And then it regressed
Into the moods
Of Euclid.
Pensive students
Examine individual problems.
Alone, or in a class atmosphere,
Knowledge grows
Through the expression
And adaptation of thoughts.
Shop,
Mathematics,
History,
Art:
Each utilizes
Different teaching methods,
And each
Generates particular responses.
Stifled
And unstifled yawns
Dot a lecture class,
And the teacher
Adjusts his techniques
To revitalize the learning
Experience.
BOARD OF EDUCATION

To the student, the Euclid Board of Education is the omnipotent entity which occupies the neighboring building. Its activities are aimed at the maintenance of Excellent Education in Euclid as witnessed by continuous expansion in all academic areas. Students have found the Board less formidable when they have approached its members on matters of school policy.
The mood of the educational environment in Euclid is one of excitement, innovation, change, discovery, and involvement. The mood of "Excellent Education in the Euclid Schools" permeates every facet of the learning process as an interested Board of Education affirms the values of a comprehensive program for all young men and young women. The community echoes this mood by its positive support; the total staff of teachers, administrators, and non-teachers alike insures a proper atmosphere for learning through their dedication; and students enjoy a variety of curricular offerings and participate in a well-rounded and inclusive program of activities.
My personal congratulations to each graduate and my best wishes for your further accomplishments.

Spartoco DiBasio
ADMINISTRATION

Sincere interest and concern characterize the administration. The Principal extends extra effort in order to maintain contact with and to bring our officialdom closer to the student body. While assuming definite positions on major issues, the staff listens to and considers both isolated and organized pleas for change.

DEANS AND COUNSELORS

As the guiding force behind the masses of Euclid High School, the Deans and Counselors strive to personally identify with each of the students of the school. Thwarted by headstrong and obstinate students, however, they find this road difficult to master and often, the administration corridor finds itself isolated from the rest of the building. Concentrating their efforts to forming and correcting schedules and delivering reprimands, as well as advice, the Deans and Counselors represent a liason between administration and student body.
Stumbling through a maze of clauses, phrases and colons, the English student demonstrates his knowledge of grammar through application in creative writing. Meter and rhyme in poetry confront him along with style and meaning. Novels explore philosophies which generate thinking from new viewpoints and make use of powers of analyses. Journalism and speech provide a broader scope for student participation outside the "standard" classroom. English stimulates the mind of its student by fusing the elements of conquered grammar and great books into the original composition.

SCIENCE

Formaldehyde reeks through the room as peering students explore the cellular world under the microscope. Novice chemists use standard techniques to check the identity of unknown substances in test compounds. Experimental observations recorded, students apply theories they have learned in class to develop and support conclusions. Even evidence contrary to known physical laws aids the questing scientists because it causes inspection and improvement of their experimental techniques. Science develops in a student the ability to inspect, criticize, and improve his own technique, enabling him to obtain improved results.

SOCIAL STUDIES

Comprehension of social, economic and political influences is the objective of the social studies teacher. Reading of current newspaper and magazine articles aids the student in developing an awareness of the surrounding world. In contrast, historic faces glare from the pages of the text. A barrage of somewhat confusing facts confront the history student, who must reduce them into practical knowledge applicable to the present. Analysis of historic events helps clarify the development of American character and politics.

MATHEMATICS

Complex numbers, triangles and Cartesian planes represent countless challenges to the dedicated math student. The maze of a matrix and the puzzle of parallel lines enhance the mystery surrounding the infinite domain of numbers. Math expands to combine with other fields as a stack of punched data cards is computerized to produce a solution in physics or biology. Mathematics' limitless range offers many different areas of specialization to the student who has mastered its basic theorems.

"I eat photographers like you for breakfast."

"This is a blackboard."
FOREIGN LANGUAGE

Coordination of sound and sight challenges the mind of the foreign language student. New words and concepts become automatic responses as tapes rewind and the droning repetition resumes. Culture from each country is studied in the literature and customs, and the student unconsciously absorbs its geography and history. Through tedious hours of drill, the student at last achieves a relationship with a now familiar people, reaching his goal of communication.

BUSINESS

Stimulated by a desire to succeed, the business student gains proficiency with modern office techniques. Combining speed with accuracy, they eventually master shorthand, typing and bookkeeping. Cooperative programs offer practical experience for those skilled in office procedures through job placement in local industries.
Individual practice results in the satisfaction and excitement of performing as part of the bands or choirs. Marching band members reluctantly spend chilly fall mornings informally practicing for the weekend game to which their military uniforms lend decorum. At their regular concerts, orchestra, choir and band members all take their turns, nervously waiting for the curtain to be drawn. Few noticeable mistakes are made, and the performance seems to end quickly. Immediate exhaustion, relief and pride are stronger than the realization that practice with new music will begin the next day.
Paint-stained hands tightly clutch a brown portfolio that may contain practice exercises for class or preparations for independent study. After the student masters the basic techniques of various media, he begins to explore the bizarre world of contemporary art. Each artist strives for satisfaction and perfection with every project. The continually changing display case of finished works gains admiring glances from all that pass.
Hey Joe, start wearing cleaner T-shirts!

HOME ARTS

Home Arts students list and divide the most practical, orderly and efficient steps for the completion of a project. Cooking groups which quickly prepare an appetizing and attractive meal in a short class period deserve praise. Clothing class projects may refurbish a girl's wardrobe or clothe a relative or friend. Home Arts classes instruct future homemakers, designers, dietitians, doctors, or nurses to follow scientific methods and to correctly use the appropriate equipment.
DRIVING

Patient and nerveless teachers instruct eager students in the art of driving. Prospective operators gain valuable information on the maintenance and handling of a car under widely varying conditions. Driver training helps many students achieve the prowess necessary to obtain their licenses, and more important, teaches them to be careful, skilled drivers.

INDUSTRIAL ARTS

For boys and girls who enjoy manual activity, Euclid provides complete and specialized industrial arts courses. The basic groundwork for most of the class projects consists of theory, math, and science. Both accuracy and safety are essential in operating the many machines. The student enrolled in the industrial arts program leaves Euclid with the knowledge and proper preparation necessary to advance to an important technical career.
PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Struggling with exercises, and attempting to master the variety of athletics offered at Euclid may be considered less than appealing to some, but for many, gym class constitutes forty minutes of release from academic tension. Rescue Annie not only provides entertainment in the first aid classes, but she also provides the students with first-hand experience in saving any victim’s life. The health course consists of closely related movies and interesting discussions. Intramurals and coed sports offer competition and recreation to the sports-minded after school.
LIBRARIANS

Among shelves of books stand the librarians, the information and aid centers of the library. Lost and lazy students find themselves trailing behind a precise and well trained technician who effectively locates the needed material from the volumes present. The large daily influx of students from study hall adds one more task to the librarians' duties, as they constantly attempt to maintain the studious atmosphere necessary for mental stimulation.

ADJUSTED CURRICULUM

Adjusted curriculum offers courses which will be valuable to its students in later life. Most seniors and many juniors participating in the program earn credits through job experience during school hours. Smaller and more individualized classes help the student to find answers to his questions and prepare him for new horizons after graduation.
NON-TEACHING STAFF

Students take for granted much of the daily toil necessary to operate a school. Halls and classrooms, cleaned by the maintenance crew, go unnoticed as students rush to classes. Spirit Masters, notes and announcements are distributed and duplicated through the office. The ill and bruised daily visit the nurses for treatment. Nutritious meals are provided by the cafeteria personnel. The Non-Teaching Staff aids in making the school function effectively.

SPORTS
Shouts resound in a united chorus.
The crowd vacillates between
Fear, elation,
Disappointment, gladness—
With each score—each play,
As if all destiny
Hung in the balance.
Tension tightens strained muscles
On sweat-covered bodies.
Victory conjures
A fanatical joy that lasts
Long after the happening;
Defeat plunges each person
Into darkness
And depression
Eased only by a hope
For future triumph.
FOOTBALL

Sore gridders crash; plays practiced repetitiously force perfect execution. Tired players drag to the locker room for “brain” sessions; exhausted legs trudge around the field once more. Weekends saw the Panther team launching its attack, driving fiercely for scores and shoving back determined enemies. Spectators screamed, frenzied by each touchdown. Faithful followers glowed with pride as new coaching and purposeful teamwork revived Euclid’s gridiron spirit.

Panther spirit lights the night.

"Guess that makes me King."

Waltzing around.

"Are you kidding?"
Spirited homecoming festivities rolled to a start with a noisy Thursday night parade climaxed at the blazing bonfire. Friday night cheering showed unity in purpose to “Flatten Forge” with a tearful half-time in crowning of queen and court. Ferocious animals and a ferris wheel ignited the atmosphere for a Saturday night “Carnival” of events on homecoming weekend.

Cross Country runners continually strive for development of endurance and for control of speed. Exhaustive practices demand individual improvement. At the meets, the exhilarating autumn weather and the loud encouragement of indignant-sounding teammates drive runners to “put out.” Muscles aching and chests heaving, the runners finish one by one and in groups. For those with good times, satisfaction and jubilance subdue the pain.
INDOOR TRACK

At Euclid, victory and track are synonymous. Legs leap swiftly over hurdles and feet rush down cement floors as the trackmen sprint toward another triumph. Although neither the downstairs track nor the corridors offer vantage points conducive to large crowds, a small gathering of loyal fans never fails to cheer the thinclads.

Wake up Terry!

VARSITY BASKETBALL

Hours of drill perfect quick moving plays and the "fast break." Fans direct the players by screaming, "We want two points" and become momentarily appeased when the ball streaks through the threads. While the "nut squad" races down court to prevent enemy scoring, the crowd adds its "psychological advantage" by creating noise and distracting the opposition. Defense and the outside shot combined to retain the LEL crown and to capture district finals for a second time.

VARSITY WRESTLING

Two grapplers warily eye each other, then circle, awaiting an opening for a takedown. A dive for the legs and a twist free retains the neutral position. Moves and counter-moves exhaust both mind and body, as each wrestler executes a multitude of maneuvers to dominate his opponent. The slap of the referee's hand on the mat ends the match with a thunderous finality and another opponent becomes a victim of the victorious Panther matmen.

Student Council at work.
Service to school and community through student cooperation is the goal of the Student Council. The executive board and student committees meet each Wednesday in the E-room to evaluate preparations for annual projects. The busy agenda includes filling food baskets for needy families and collecting clothes for children in Appalachia. Last minute decorating and planning for Homecoming and Winter Festival weekends involve students and generates school spirit. The active government is always open to suggestions for achieving its objective to serve and to involve.
KEY CLUB

Members canvass Euclid for funds to support a national charity, sell "mini-mega" to raise their treasury and school spirit, and participate in an inter-club basketball tournament; each represents one aspect of Key Club. "We Build," its motto, pertains to all areas of development. Character, leadership, and community interest are fostered through club activities. Rated against other schools' clubs by monthly achievement reports, Euclid's Key Club strives to keep first place.
American Field Service members who stay in America “walk and talk” with foreign visitors, enjoying the customs of others and explaining their own customs. Club members may co-operate to cook a dinner of sour dough bread, paella, stuffed grape leaves and quiche, or they may travel as a group to see a Brecht play. The annual language movies, the competition for international scholarships, and the presentation of the exchange student acquaint the student body to the lofty ideals of the organization.
FTA members, united by a desire to become teachers, expose themselves to many of the problems and rewards of teaching through the various lectures at their meetings. A point system rates each member's club involvement and encourages active participation in club activities. Future teachers gain experience both by tutoring during their study halls and by working in close association with teachers.

"Confidentially, this is the worst punch I've ever tasted."

Y-TEENS

Basically a service organization, Friendship Y-Teens members are also interested in creating social functions with all of their three clubs, sophomore, junior and senior. Whether busy on a refreshment or dance committee or making favors for a hospital, the member dedicates herself to Y-Teen ideals.
SPIRITS

Enthusiastic students gather in the night to compose slogans and construct signs urging the destruction of Panther enemies. Sweat-shirted spirits splash bright colors, as others plaster the dried banners over the walls of the school. Wednesday morning, students view the patchwork in the halls that materialized out of Spirits' workshop.

"Art is my only life."

The Spirit of '69
With the shout of "Line up," the Girls' Leaders Club member begins her duties. Whether leading exercises or demonstrating sports skills to the class, each leader must exhibit patience and enthusiasm. The activities include refereeing G.A.A. and co-ed games, and enjoying lively social activities. Developing leadership gains the respect of classmates.

G.L.C.'s order of business.

GIRLS' ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

The girls' version of intramural sports, Girls' Athletic Association, offers competition in a variety of sports. GAA gives girls in all grade levels the opportunity to participate in entertaining activities and to improve physical skills. Numerous non-athletic functions stimulate social awareness.

"I think you're sweet too."

WAI NAPOLO

Energetic members with strained muscles splash the water each Tuesday as shouts of “Wai Napolo forever!” echo in the pool. Ever-striving for new grace in synchronized swimming, the aquamaids receive well-deserved praise from fellow swim club members. Patient instruction of the novice and the advanced swimmer provide the swim leader the opportunity to develop skill in future water enthusiasts. January signals the beginning of endless hours of practice in preparation for the annual spring water show. The meaning of Wai Napolo remains secret with the sisterhood of its members.
AD CLUB

The duties of Ad Club members require responsible students willing to devote their lunch periods and many Friday and Saturday nights to selling tickets. Often working through an entire game, club members manage ticket booths and stamp hands of avid fans.

LETTERMEN'S CLUB

Membership in the Lettermen's Club is restricted to those athletes who have earned their varsity letters. The club gives recognition to outstanding performance and to individual effort.
F.B.L.A.

The business world involves more than the familiar typing, bookkeeping and shorthand associated with it. F.B.L.A. attempts to give its members this additional information and experience through widely selected educational activities. It strives to provide the student with solid background in the field of business.

D.E.C.A.

Students desirous of a career in the fields of marketing and distribution gain valuable experience and a better understanding of their prospective careers through Distributive Education Club of America. Students learn the aspects of the American free enterprise economy through the spirit of competition fostered by this national organization.
In its second year at Euclid, Cooperative Office Education, an organized program for twenty-six years, is open to seniors taking business courses. The members, limited to twenty-five highly qualified students whose work is evaluated and graded throughout the year, gain office experience by working with local companies.
Euclid's Youth Council on Human Relations investigates social problems by projects and reason. The viewing of a controversial movie stimulates members to examine their individual beliefs. Conflicts in philosophies and opinions often lead to heated discussions in which no idea is sacred, nor any conclusion valid until supported with sound judgement. With such a background as preparation, members embark on a project to test their theories. Using this study and investigative method, they strive to achieve a better understanding of people and problems in school, city and world communities.

MEDICAL CAREERS CLUB

The Future Nurses Club broadened its scope of interests, admitted boys, and renamed itself the Medical Careers Club. Almost fifty students meet twice a month to acquaint themselves with a particular medical field. Under the enthusiastic sponsorship of Euclid General Hospital, members have had opportunities to tour hospitals and to talk with a navy nurse, a psychologist, and a Peace Corps medic.
Clutching their equipment with amateur enthusiasm, the Saturday skiers brave the slopes of Mont Chalet and eagerly demonstrate to fellow students their newly acquired skills in the snow. Occasional spills on cold, wet ground fail to daunt the skiers' spirits. Anxious to don parkas, mittens and heavy socks, they wait impatiently for forecasts of "cold with snow."
CHESS CLUB

Chess Club holds tournaments without cheerleaders and record crowds; quiet contemplation provides the key for the strategic moves executed by patient members of both teams. Each individual triumph makes the hypnotic hours spent under the spell of knights and bishops worthwhile. Intensive silence, a result of deep concentration, shatters with the word “checkmate” the chessman’s cry of victory.

CAMERA CLUB

Camera Club members meet informally to exchange ideas on technique and composition, to evaluate advancements in equipment, and to criticize the craftsman of a professional. Student photographers prove their abilities by setting up, developing, enlarging and mounting their own work. Their high school work for scholastic art competition and for publication staffs provides members with experience for artistic or commercial careers.
COIN CLUB

Speculating about the purchasing of bags of coins and observing the monetary systems of different nations are some of the activities of Coin Club. As the members accumulate various worldwide coinage, they trade extras in an attempt to complete their numismatology.

SCIENCE SEMINAR

Crystal growing, hypnotism and astronomy constitute part of the diverse range of topics included by Science Seminar. Science and math-orientated audiences encounter new ideas and theories. Clues to the complexities of a minute atom or a distant star reveal themselves with the aid of the guest speaker; limitations imposed by the regular classroom slowly diminish.
Soccer, basketball, track, field hockey, and volleyball constitute the teams boasted by Girls' Sports. The sports teams provide a challenge of competition and individual ability. Although the girls' teams enjoy less popularity than their male counterparts, the girls acquire a sense of achievement and self-satisfaction.
P.A. CLUB

P.A. Club members play an important part in the production of an assembly or a show; Adjusting and setting up microphones, speakers, and other equipment constitutes the major part of their job. Assisting with the public address system during school, this service organization more than proves its value.

MOVIE CLUB

Movie Club members sacrifice their study halls to deliver audio visual equipment to classrooms, to splice films, to make minor machine repairs, or to show noon movies. Their work rarely receives any expression of gratitude; yet, their occasional mistakes are loudly condemned. However, their conscientious efforts are appreciated by the noon movie-goers, by the students in the classroom, by the teacher who uses movies for illustration to supplement review, and, of course, by the exasperated substitute.
FOREMAN'S CLUB

Basing eligibility for membership on responsibility and skill, the Foreman's Club remains small and selective. The primary purpose of the club centers on the training of boys to assist in machine shop classes. Supervising classes, handling large and complex machines, and emphasizing safety, the foreman earns valuable experience and respect.

METAL SCULPTURE CLUB

Interest in exploring a new media of art unites this neophyte club. Armed with blow torch and goggles, club members solder various metals into unique sculptures. Members add colors to copper and create new enameled designs.
RADIO CLUB

WA8ZGE, the call letters of the Radio Club, promises communications with the rest of the United States and beyond. Much knowledge and capability is required of the "hams" to construct working radio equipment. The club helps its members to obtain the licenses by helping them to pass the exam.

STUDENT STORE

The Student Supply Store quickly becomes crowded as students rush in to buy materials for their next classes. The ring of the cash register and eager, outstretched hands add to the hurried confusion of customers wanting to buy anything from cough drops to Shakespearean plays. Although somewhat flustered by the large groups attempting to make purchases at the same time, operators manage to give correct change and to show courtesy to all their customers.
FOLK CLUB

A small room, reflections of light, the twang of a guitar, a clear voice raised in song—a ballad, create a bit of heaven for the folk enthusiast. Stimulating conversation, imaginative expression, creative inspiration, a cool, quiet atmosphere and live entertainment recruited from all parts of the area bring friends together to share their interest in folk music.

EUCUYO

A small group of students quietly collects classmates' better short stories, plays, and poems. Published works must be original and well written. Staff members compile literary works into a modest volume which is attractively illustrated with student art work. In the spring, the completed book receives enthusiastic compliments from its readers.
SPIRITS INC.

The male spirit-inciters raise laughter from audiences with their personalized and original cheers. Though only in its second year, the club's membership list remains long with enthusiastic participants. Spirit Inc.'s goal, to act as the "psychological advantage" for the Panther teams, is maintained with each victory.

BRAILLE CLUB

Once a week, partially blind students patiently instruct their sighted classmates. Beginners must first learn to distinguish letters of the raised dot alphabet. When this phase of learning is completed, the "seeing" students learn that they will probably always have to use their eyes to read braille; their sense of touch is not as keenly developed as that of their student instructors. Through Braille Club, the student instructor and the pupil gain some insight into each other's worlds.
For those who have a special talent for speaking, National Forensic League offers a chance to compete against students from other high schools at the weekly Saturday tournaments. Three rounds of competition follow early morning registration. Afterwards, contestants nervously await the results. A first place trophy culminates long hours of practice and causes the realization that the work expended in practice was not wasted.

Mike Debevec, State Qualifier.
POLITICAL-WORLD AFFAIRS

Lively, controversial discussions aid members of Political-World Affairs Club in understanding current problems and disturbances. Well-informed speakers present opinions on current events to acquaint the members with viewpoints which may differ from their own. Concerned students experienced the presidential race on their own level with a mock election preceded by student campaigns.

YOUTH POWER

Leading national food industries promote Youth Power groups to interest students in all phases of the production, processing, and distribution of foods. Encouragement of better nutrition among teenagers emerges as the main goal. Youth Power has as an important objective: planning for the future nutritional needs of our country.
Struggling with varied concepts, the student finally mumbles a decision and the idea takes shape. Testing different media, he advances step by step. Asking softly for criticism, the artist works slowly toward completion. The composition finished, the Voice of Art speaks loudly in its exhibition.

E-ROOM

Tired students slowly saunter to the after-school mecca. Records blasting from the loudspeakers and buzzing conversation create atmosphere as the social center fills with students. Under "Mom's" guidance, the varied facilities of the E-Room provide for diverse activities.
Reaching out to explore and absorb culture through the arts is Spectrum's objective. Securing tickets and attending performances create student interest and gradual appreciation of efforts in the arts.

Drama Workshop, the omnipresent entity at dramatic productions, provides varied sound effects and appropriate properties. The tasks allocated to its members demand ingenuity and resourcefulness in rehearsals and during the performances. Although their efforts receive only casual mention in the program, evidence of their importance lies in the continued success of Euclid dramatics.

Denise Dworning

Margie Fennell, Substitute.

Panthers (L to R): Laurie Jewett, Gio Ulizzi.

CHEERLEADERS

Panther mascots and saddle-shoed, short-skirted cheerleaders shout the glories of Euclid victories and tearfully share the Panther's defeats. Hours of after-school practice results in straight lines and precise formations. Well-timed jumps climax uniform and enthusiastic cheers. Exhausting gyrations, cartwheels and splits contribute to the spirit of participation among the faithful followers.
MAJORETTES

"One, two, three, four, five, six, seven, eight!" Whistles blow and records countlessly repeat, as long majorette practices drag. Onlookers are rewarded by watching precise high-kicking chorus lines and flashing batons. Girls at early morning sessions in rollers, gym shorts and long coats march toward synchronization in well-rehearsed routines. White boots and pom-poms decorate the football field and basketball court to the enjoyment of half-time audiences. Satisfaction shines in each majorette's ever-present smile.

Ken Hassink, Senior Class President

ORCHESTRA

Hours of private practice, in addition to rehearsals with the entire group, enable the orchestra to perform excellent concerts. The music consists of many individual parts, each of them necessary to complement the melody. Orchestra members work diligently to perfect their parts and attain total harmony.

BAND

Marching band members, armed with instruments, hot chocolate, and spirit, excel in executing football game halftime shows. Support of the Panthers extends into basketball as the select pep band provides entertainment and unites cheering efforts. Later in the year, the symphonic and concert bands produce high quality musical performances.

MIXED CHOIR

Each voice, each note adds to the total sound of a choir. Accomplishing perfection in harmony and expression requires repetitious practice and a patient, dedicated director. Concerts throughout the year provide both a goal for the choral singer and evenings of enjoyment for the audiences.
CHORAL MASTERS

Choral Masters soon become accustomed to the hectic schedule of rehearsing programs, completing formals and planning parties and banquets. Open competition determines membership in the large choir which performs at district and state contests and the annual Christmas and Spring concerts. The combination of talented singers and daily practices produces outstanding harmony and sound.

Dedicated to producing excellent intonation and harmony, Varsity Choralers exemplify the attitude of the serious music student. This select group maintains its reputation through concentration and cooperative practice. Twenty singers in trim blue blazers join their talents to perfect a unique sound. Experience and enthusiasm permit experiments in combination, arrangement, and blend.

PLAYS

Simple scenery on nearly bare stages challenges the actresses and actors to convey their emotions directly to engrossed audiences. The presentation of two well-known plays, Splendor in the Grass and The Miracle Worker, brought the plays' viewers into direct contact with highly emotional life-dramas. The young thespians accurately portrayed the internal and external struggles present within the plays and established their parallel themes of parent-child relationships and the opening of closed minds.
Scholarship, leadership, character and service constitute the four areas in which prospective inductees are evaluated. Compiled ratings from all the applicants’ teachers determine the main basis for the highly competitive selection. The solemn induction brings realization to the student of his selected status as a member of the National Honor Society.

Induction into International Quill and Scroll acknowledges the many hours spent by aspiring journalists to produce the three school publications. Members of Euclidian, Survey and Eucuyo staffs receive pins which honor their abilities and perseverance, and a monthly I.Q.S. newspaper.

SURVEY
BUSINESS STAFF

The Business Staff provides the financial base necessary to operate the Survey. A subscription drive, held at the beginning of the year, and advertisements sold to local merchants help meet costs. Rapid distribution of a quality newspaper demonstrates Business Staff's continuing success.
Journalism, graphic arts and art combine efforts to produce the biweekly newspaper. After interviewing, photographing and researching, staff members industriously fit their stories into limited spaces banked with appropriate captions and headlines. Deadline made, and the paper printed, they eagerly await student reaction. The conscientious work of the Survey staff members has resulted in excellence unsurpassed throughout the nation as witnessed by their “All-American” rating.

“We’re splitting the money.”
EUCLIDIAN BUSINESS STAFF

EUCLIDIAN Business Staff members act as public relations managers, accountants and salesmen for the yearbook. Work begins in the fall when a sales campaign is launched and continues until spring when the completed books are distributed. During the interim months, members approach merchants in the vicinity and encourage them to buy advertising space. The business staff shares the satisfaction of helping produce a book which it successfully finances.
UNDERCLASS
Momentarily stunned
By the school’s immensity,
Released into a mass of strangers,
The underclassmen grope for an Identity
As a class,
Rather than as individuals.
With others,
Yet not together,
They wander,
Find new acquaintances
And develop distinct personalities.
As familiarity increases,
Untouched by problems
Of the future,
They remain caught up
In the joy of the present
And unconcerned about—
Tomorrow.

1200 BABBITT ROAD IS NO FARTHER THAN YOUR WALLET.

Take a look.
If you buy gas and oil on credit, chances are the Addressograph Multigraph Corporation helped you get it.

The machine at service stations that imprints from your credit card is very likely an Addressograph product. And probably the card, too. (You already know about the machines we make that are used for addressing.)

Our Copier and Duplicator Division makes copy machines and offset duplicators, so businessmen can make one copy of a letter or duplicate thousands of copies of an advertising brochure. Or anything else they need.

Your neighbor is also the home office for a worldwide organization and other subsidiaries. The VariType Corporation (VariType machines), the Buckeye Ribbon & Carbon Company, the Emeloid Company (they make the plastic cards), and the new EIS Subsidiary, which is responsible for electronic transmission of graphic images over long distances.

You might say we're in the business machine business.

That's Addressograph Multigraph.

For Our Team?

Try us on for size. Our business is automation, a concept that won’t be obsolete until people stop looking for ways to make their lives better. We think, design, build and market products for automation. This calls for people who welcome new challenges, and who can offer new ideas that change those challenges into realities.

Right now, you’ll find we have a career that fits your present abilities and skills. As you grow, you’ll find that others will open up before you. And you’ll be more than just a number to us. That’s because we’re as interested in our people as we are in our products.

Give it a thought. Then give us a call. We’re here in your town as well as in other cities throughout the nation and the world, supplying products for automation and careers for people.

In a mood of relief, I slowly realize that writing these words signifies the end of my year as the first male Euclidian head-editor. To the editorial staff member the year has been marked by many thrilling events; memories of the perennial late work-parties, dissappearing pictures, retyped copy blocks and a fan filling the hole in the office ceiling will be recalled whenever THE BOOK is reread. A great deal of appreciation is felt toward: the Business Staff whose financial backing in another record year has made this venture an economic success, and Raimor Studios whose photographic skill and help and rapid service in emergencies were instrumental in putting pictures on the pages, and last but certainly not least our advisors Mr. Gerald Henderson and Mr. Robert Hall who always had well-timed advice and kept a close watch on our sentence fragments and dangling participles. We have produced this book with you in mind, I am sure your enjoyment will make our work worthwhile.
